AN ESTIMATE OF OVER 15,000 GOOD NATURED PEOPLE attended the Opening Day of Lewis Bros. & Co.'s Great Closing Out Sale of Gariepy & Lessard's Stock, and the sales people remained in good cheer---in fact, everybody was seemingly happy all day long.

Bargain Tables

On these tables you will find conveniently displayed hundreds of useful articles at prices that will truly be an insult to the quality of the goods. It will be easy to buy here because you can make your own selections quickly without any unnecessary loss of time. No persuasion allowed here. It's the price that sells. That rules here.

$60,000 Stock

BEING SACRIFICED

One of the largest stocks in all Alberta—Truly the premier opportunity for genuine economy. Mere words and price figures would not do justice to low prices that will prevail during the few days. It's what you save that counts. This is the time to save.

Don't Hesitate

Get busy while you have the cream of the stock to select from. To miss this sale is a positive loss of money to you. Now is the time to get a suit, Hat, Dress Pattern or a pair of Shoes at cost and less than cost in many instances. Furnishing Goods will be thrown out at whatever price they will bring to insure a quick disposal.

Marvelous Value Giving

while the stock lasts which will be only for a few short days. All attempts at opposition are being swept aside, even the other merchants are becoming astonished as they learn the extent of the great reductions which have been made on this tremendous stock of dependable merchandise.

Plain Facts and Plain Figures

Every article has been marked in plain figures and strictly one price to all, and that one price is in every instance the lowest ever quoted on first-class merchandise. We will not and do not want to make one cent of profit, as we must sell out the entire stock in a very few short days regardless of any loss.

A Gigantic Mercantile Movement

No mercy will be shown prices during this mighty mercantile movement. The entire stock is now being sold at prices that are creating intense excitement. All consideration of Cost, Loss or Value have been ignored. Sell the goods are the orders that must be obeyed regardless of any monetary loss which must be met in making a complete clearance of every dollar's worth of merchandise in the entire stock—Everything from wall to wall and from cellar to ceiling must go.

Quick Action is Necessary

Act quickly and you will reap the golden harvest of dollars saved on fine clothing, Shoes, Dry Goods, Groceries, Hats, Furnishing Goods. DO NOT waste your precious time by waiting until the last moment. If you value your money and are interested in your personal welfare and appearance, then you will not and cannot afford to miss this—the greatest opportunity that has ever been presented to the people of Edmonton and vicinity.

DUNCAN MARSHALL, Manager.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1933.

A venerable rhyme might with slight modifications be made to read: Cook and Peary set us thinking What a fine world this would be If these men had both got stranded Far up in the Northern Sea.

Their leadership seems to have decided that there will be no backlog after all. At least they have passed a bill for spending part of the money to be collected by the distributed clause, and a willingness to spend must be taken to denote a willingness to collect—that is, to contribute. Their leadership must be confronted with the question of how they have discovered that the humble burglar is not so much alarmed at being asked to pay more as he was about having his favorite library closed up. The discovery took time, but it came at last.
Also, having made the discovery, they have the good judgment to acquiesce.
They would seem keep three-quarters of the unearned income and the privilege of over-riding the correct bill, sent up by the House of Commons that lose their status as part of the governmental machinery, after the giving of a wounded prize, and perhaps have a vegetable House committee and take all the increment besides. In time they will no doubt come around to the conclusion that after all the bulge proposals do not amount to so very much; that the Old Nobility will still be able to intelligently elaborate the Christmas present, and that they may even be able to distribute the customary cheer among the needy about them, and to donate their annual subscriptions to the local football club; at least that the wild speculative innovations will not immediately extinguish order and order and the state cradling through chance down to oblivion.

In spite of their opinions about the wisdom of paying for traffic attachments to the new C. P. R. bridge citizens generally will be gratified to learn that the C. P. R. has taken ahead with the project immediately.
That the legislation work will be done during the coming winter and the structure completed next year. The enormous amount from the second vice president of the Company Through railway announcements sometimes fall of fulfillment according to schedule, there is every reason to surmise the present one a correct statement of the Company's intentions at present, and a correct statement of what will occur. One purpose of the bridge, is of course, to give the Company direct entrance to the city.
Of this there was comparatively little need until the completion of their new short-line via Wetaskiwin to Winnipeg. This line is now completed and will be in good running condition next summer. It is reasonable to suppose that all traffic generating at Winnipeg and north, and all incoming traffic destined to that city and winnipeg will be routed by the new road instead of the roundabout route it now takes. The purpose of its construction has been understood to be the necessity of a shorter route because of the fact that the Company has been unable to secure another through line to Pacific telegraph it is most reasonable to suppose, and the bridge is taken to be the first item in this programme. The beginning of construction on it will be taken, therefore, as not only assuring the entrance of the third transcontinental to the city, but as the commencement of a second C. P. R. line from Alberta to the Coast.

FORSAKING THE TRADITIONS.

Mr. Borden has consented to allow a party convention to be called. This is significant. It marks the elevation of the Tribune News to the position of chief newspaper councilor to Mr.
Borden. Rather it is Mr. Borden's formal acknowledgement of the position occupied by the News for many months. For though that journal editors still the badge of independence the conduct has been conspicuously out of keeping with the fiction. It has given the Opposition a steady and vigorous support. It has alternately lauded Mr. Borden and admonished him to cut adrift from certain gentlemen who were no strength to him. It has attacked the Government from about every standpoint, on about every phase of policy and with probably every weapon that was offered or that ingenuity suggested. It "feared" the last election campaign in the Opposition interests, or supposed to, under "arrangement" with a group of gentlemen of the Alberta Club. In all respects it has been conducted as an avowed and out party paper, though publishing daily profession of political independence at the head of its editorial columns. It has been influenced of course by its works rather than by its professions, and the public have very correctly sized it up as believing lately and persistently for the leading position among the Opposition journals. This position it now seems to have attained, in the opinion of its leader, at any rate. The News first proposed a party convention. Now the proposal repeated or enforced in any manner by the party of the party group. Some of the latter indeed have given it to be understood pretty clearly and pretty loudly that they have no intention of taking orders from the new-come-er of seeing their party dominated by it. It remains to be seen how these journals will take Mr. Borden's policy introduction of his new chief-staff.

The announcement of a national convention is an innovation, also into the scheme of the Conservative party of Canada and into the significance of the name itself. The idea is indeed antithetical to the basic doctrine of Conservatism everywhere. Chief among those doctrines is that of preserving what has proven and custom honored. Next to this is the notion of respect for authority, the tenet that a king should be king, that a leader is of right entitled to lead. Both these doctrines are involved in the announcement of a convention. There have been in-national conventions of Canadian Conservatives. They have been proceeded always on the principle that a man who was big enough to lead the party was big enough to understand the goal to which the party aimed and to choose the way by which that goal might be attained. It has been their proud boast indeed that the
deeds and principles were unchanging and unchangeable and that the business of the party leader was to work faithfully and intelligently for the success of those principles. To call them into question, or to admit the possibility of their being wrong was one of his duty. A few days ago the Winnipeg Telegram recommended this cardinal doctrine in discussing the proposal which Mr. Borden has accepted, or one phase of it.
The Conservative party, said the Telegram in effect, is, and will continue to be, what it has been: its aims are its aims, and no convention is needed either to change those aims or to remind the party what they are. The Telegram, of course, is right, and it was probably also right in warning the News that any attempt to lead the party off after strange gods would betray a rebellion.

How the party will regard the proposal is the important question for Mr. Borden. Sir John Macdonald regarded no convention. That is the significant fact which will loom before the mind of the man in the ranks.
The great chiefdom understood the meaning of the name he bore, and when he accepted the honor of leadership accepted also the responsibility of leading. Mr. Borden, to do him credit, has pursued this course up to the present. For many years his speeches in Parliament constituted the daily basis to the party's policy and the only standard against which they could rally. When successive disasters made plain that some new standard of authority was needed he considered the Halifax platform without consultation with his followers, treated the country advancing its views as their views demanded their support, the duly accredited leader, and selected the public franchise in this sense. Whatever criticism this course may have invited, it is at least the merit of being that which his followers had followed. To the Conservative, Mr. Borden was maintaining the party traditions, however poorly and against great odds.

Indeed the protests launched against his course by ambitious politicians in the Western Provinces may be supposed to have stemmed to him rather than taken from him the loyalty of those old standards who remembered the Great Chiefdom and the way he led them. However weakly and unsuccessful, Mr. Borden was following that great example under trying conditions, amidst distracting currents of thought, and against rebellious elements within his own ranks. His present announcement is his admission that he has failed, and that either the leadership must cease to mean what it has meant, or the honor must pass to some one else. It remains to be seen whether the party will abandon the tradition with which their greatest triumphs are inseparably associated, or whether they will place the leadership in the hands of some one capable of exercising the traditional functions and maintaining its dignity.
